FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE INFORMATIONMemorandum by the Director of Central Intelligence with the Unanimous Concurrence of the Intelligence Advisory Board

1. By memorandum dated 17 April 1946, the Special Assistant to the Secretary of State for Research and Intelligence informed the Director of Central Intelligence that the Department of State had inherited from the former OSS, a collection of 300,000 photographs and 400,000 unprinted negatives of probable value as sources of intelligence information. The memorandum suggested that the Director initiate a study of the coordination of the several photographic files that are being actively maintained, so as to recommend:

- a. Procedures for the coordination of the collection, processing, filing and servicing of photo-intelligence materials;
- b. Whether or not a (central) photo-technical laboratory should be established to improve and maintain high technical quality of photo-intelligence materials;
- c. To which agency the Department of State's photo-intelligence file should be transferred.

2. An informal survey by the Central Planning Staff indicates the desirability of coordinating the collection, distribution and filing of photographs containing intelligence information. As this falls within the mission of the Central Intelligence Group for planning the coordination of the collection of foreign intelligence information related to the national security, a formal survey will be made of the matters included in the memorandum cited in paragraph 1, above, and such related matters as concern photographs possessing foreign intelligence information value.

3. The Central Planning Staff will conduct the survey, which will include consideration of:

- a. Types of foreign intelligence information in photograph files of the various departments and agencies of the Government and extent of coverage represented;
- b. Types of foreign intelligence information currently being collected by means of photography and by whom collected;
- c. Extent of duplication in the collecting of photographs with foreign intelligence information value and means for eliminating undesirable duplication of effort;
- d. Nature of index maintained in each agency possessing or accumulating files of photographs containing foreign intelligence information;
- e. Desirability and feasibility of establishing a central index covering all related photograph files in the Government and determination of the best system to be employed;
- f. Practicability of establishing and maintaining standard procedures for processing, filing and distributing photographs with foreign intelligence information value;
- g. Desirability of establishing a central photo-technical laboratory to improve and maintain the quality of photo-information materials;
